A Perfect Day in Charlottesville

Four in-the-know locals show us where to catch a live show, sip cider, and shop for art

LIVE MUSIC

JESSE FISKE,
MUSICIAN, MISTER BABY;
REVERBNATION.COM/MISTERBABY

"I grew up with Blue Moon Diner [434/980-6666]—an old-school spot with comfort food and music. For bigger acts, go to Jefferson Theater [jeffersontheater.com], a 750-person venue in a historic building. Lately, I've been going to Main Street Annex [mainstreetannex.com], where most shows are $8. The Southern [thesouthernncville.com] is tucked away on a side street downtown, and they are known for bringing in great emerging and local bands."

GALLERY HOPPING

KIKI SLAUGHTER,
ABSTRACT ARTIST;

"Les Yeux du Monde [lesyeuxdumonde.com] is a cool gallery on a hill 15 minutes from the city. It's unexpected to see this modern structure out in the country. The Fralin Museum of Art [virginia.edu/artmuseum] mixes famous pieces with the work of emerging artists. There are a few art collectives in town, like the McGuffey Art Center [mcguffeyartcenter.com], where I took art lessons as a kid [not offered now]. I'm obsessed with Mi Ossa [miossa.com] and its artful jewelry."

FOOD & DRINKS

TIM EDMOND,
CO-OWNER, POTTER'S CRAFT CIDER;
POTTERSCRAFTCIDER.COM

"I like to stop at Beer Run [beerrun.com] for its lineup of seasonable brews. We renovated an Airstream trailer to be our tasting room, and we plan to park it out at Greenwood Gourmet Grocery [greenwoodgourmet.com]—a little treasure on your way to the wineries—on the weekends. The Whiskey Jar [thewhiskeyjarville.com] does Southern food like blackened catfish sourced from local farms. And they have the best whiskey list in town."

SHOPPING

GREER JOHNSON,
OWNER, DUO BOUTIQUE;
SHOPATDUO.COM

"For gifts, I go to Rock Paper Scissors [thinkrockpaperscissors.com]—they have the cutest cards and notebooks. Circa [circainc.com] and GasLamp Antiques [gaslampantiques.com] are the kind of places where you find stuff you don't even know you need but then have to have, like seed bags and old sewing desks. Check out Scarpa [thinkscarpa.com] for investment pieces such as shoes, bags, and jewelry from luxury labels like Lucca.ese."
