

The past is sometimes a puzzle.

Sometimes a mirror.

Sometimes an illumination.

Come learn about Americans with us.

Today's army is made up of volunteers. Is it possible that they think like the 26-year-old Union Army soldier Noah Webster Hoyt, whose diary tells why he joined up and what day-to-day army life was like in 1865? The

Stamford Historical Society's collection of primary documentary records from the American Revolution and the Civil War is an unmatched resource. The letters, clothing, and articles used by people who lived during those conflicts bring us closer to understanding them and the changes and challenges we've come through as a nation.

Come find yourself with us.

The Stamford Historical Society holds one of the largest collections of genealogical records in the state of Connecticut.

Individuals tracing their family history in our research library can make use of tax records from as far back as 1708.