

LIVE AUCTION

1 Neapolitan New York

Many New Yorkers dream about securing a table at Rao's, the venerable Southern Italian restaurant famed for its impossible-to-get reservations, as much as its classic Neapolitan fare. You can win a coveted Thursday night dinner reservation for eight guests at the famed east side haunt. And there's more...restaurateur and television personality Donatella Arpaia will host a pizza-making demonstration and dinner for 10 to 12 guests at her new pizza restaurant, Donatella, which boasts "New York's most serious pizza oven," built out of salt, sand and rock from Mount Vesuvius. You will also receive personalized copies of her cookbook.

Restrictions: Rao's: Reservation for a mutually agreed upon Thursday evening in 2011. Reservation only, dinner not included. Donatella Arpaia: For a mutually agreed upon date, expires 4/13/12.

17 Wine Tasting

Long before the movie Sideways popularized pinot noir, Williams Selyem Winery, in famed Sonoma County, has been bottling intense world-class pinot noirs that set a new standard in winemaking. A legendary winery that enjoys cult status all over the world, Williams Selyem was launched in 1981 in the humblest of settings: a two-car garage. Just six years later, the 1987 California State Fair committee named the 1985 Rochioli Pinot Noir the "sweepstakes" winner and Williams Selyem "winery of the year," catapulting the small operation into a new stratosphere. Two decades later, the winery maintains its commitment to handcrafting the finest wines according to exacting standards. Due to limited quantities, the winery's pinot noirs are sold only to members of the WS mailing list. This extraordinary offering includes one case of the winery's best pinot noirs from the acclaimed 2008 vintage, as well as rare chardonnays, zinfandels and one (2004) port that never leaves the winery and is usually only offered to "friends and family."
